The American University in Cairo (AUC), founded in 1919, is a leading American-accredited institution of higher education and center of intellectual, social and cultural life of the Arab World.

In the United States, AUC is licensed to grant degrees and is incorporated by the state of Delaware. AUC operates within the framework of a 1975 protocol with the Egyptian government, which in turn is based on a 1962 cultural relations agreement between the Egyptian and U.S. governments. It is accredited globally by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE) and locally by the National Authority for Quality Assurance and Accreditation of Education (NAQAAE).

AUC is an independent, not-for-profit, equal-opportunity institution with English as the medium of instruction.

REPEATED COURSES

Effective Spring 1995: The grade of the first attempt is disregarded in the GPA computation, and the grade of the second attempt is used.

Starting Fall 1993 through Fall 1994: If the grade of the first attempt is 'F' and the second attempt grade is 'C' or above, 'P' grade will be recorded on the transcript. However, if the second attempt grade is 'C-' or lower, it will be recorded and computed in the GPA. In both cases the 'F' grade of the first attempt is disregarded in the GPA calculation.
